“ I'm very disheartened to learn the passing of Mr. Jansen. He was truly a dedicated person to the Cotton Museum and a very smart man. I'm sure Molly, whom he brought to my daughter's surprise birthday party several years ago will sincerely miss her loving owner. Thank you for all your talks when coming into the bank and serving as a influential person in the community.

“ Janson Cox was a devoted husband, knowledgeable historian, enthusiastic educator, and a loyal, compassionate champion to all he called friend. Those of us fortunate enough to have known him are all far better for it, whether briefly or for a lifetime. Our world will be just a little less bright without him in it.

"Strike the tent" my brother, and until we meet again...God's speed, Sir!

“ He was a rare gem among men. Janson was larger than life- he was a captivating orator and storyteller with a magnetic personality. A great Patriot- simply a great man.

He and his family so graciously opened their hearts and home, welcoming me as a daughter into their family. I am not sure I ever told him this, but my father passed away when I was five and half years old. I like to think that he and my father are in Heaven talking by a campfire together, telling stories.

Janson has family that he chose with his heart. I am blessed by his friendship, honored by the beautiful memories, and will forever cherish his leadership and mentorship.

His legacy of generosity and kindness lives on through his family. My deepest condolences and fervent prayers to you, Cox family. There will never be another man like him. He will be missed greatly and thought of often.

“ Janson had a love of horses and of kids -- and he loved bringing the two together. Here he is with my then seven-year-old daughter, and she's on Molly. My daughter still remembers this day, and still adores horses. The next picture comes from the handover of the sword of C.C. Tew from the Canadian military back to the Citadel, in the sunken road at Antietam, on the very spot on which C.C. Tew died in 1862. The cadets who received the sword were those who benefited from his tutelage and leadership in The Citadel Military Living History Society.

Such a great and grand spirit -- he will be sorely missed.

“ He was "Captain Cox" to the US Navy Sea Cadets, who held the dignified, cigar-chomping artillery instructor and campfire mentor in awe - as did I. The battles were simulated, the leadership was real - and went far beyond the "living history" experiences.

" There was no one like 'im, 'Orse or Foot,
Nor any o' the Guns I knew..."

Captain Cox, you will be missed, and your wisdom lives on.

“Strange, isn't it? Each man's life touches so many other lives. When he isn't around he leaves an awful hole, doesn't he?” — It's a Wonderful Life.

I am privileged to have known Janson. Rest in peace my friend.
